BASEBALL.

Seattle lost to Portland Sunday through one of those single disastrous innings, which have been so frequently productive of defeat to her of late. In the third inning a three base hit, four errors, two bases on balls and a stolen base gave Portland five runs and the game. After the damage had been done the home team braced up and played a splendid uphill game. The lead was too great, however, to be overcome, although they came within a base hit of it in the ninth inning, when a single would have scored two men and tied the score. The best Schoeneck, who was at the bat, could do was to hit a long fly to Billy George, which made the three out. Although seven errors are credited to the home team, apart from the third inning they played a splendid fielding game and shut off run after run by the smartest kind of work. This was especially praiseworthy when in the sixth inning Portland made four clean hits in succession, one of them a double, and then scored but a single run. Powell's men also gave a fine exhibition of base-running, having no less than nine stolen bases to their credit. They also counted six sacrifice hits.

The struggle was too unequal, however, and their best efforts could not offset the effects of that one fatal inning.

QUOITS.

On Saturday afternoon at George Fairbrother's quoit grounds, a good game was played between Messrs. Marrion, English, Cox and King, resulting in a very easy win for Marrion and English. Marrion played as usual, a capital game, and Bob English gave a very good exhibition indeed, doing considerable of the scoring. He gets in very good work and is very cool and collected about it. Fairbrother has lately made great improvement on his ground which is much appreciated by the club.

WRESTLING.

Major-General J. M. Schofield, commander-in-chief of the U. S. army, is with his bride and personal staff, at the Driard.

W. H. Phillips and wife, who arrived from the east a few days ago, leave this evening for Australia via the City of Kingston, Tacoma and San Francisco.

MONTREAL IN FLAMES.

IMPOSSIBLE TO ESTIMATE THE ENORMOUS LOSS.

Some Brave Firemen Seriously Burned—The Flames Still Spreading, and the Department Unable to Control Them—Narrow Escape from Death.

MONTREAL, July 14.—The greatest conflagration Montreal has witnessed for many years is now in progress here. Beginning shortly before midnight it still rages with fury and as yet shows no signs of being controlled. Already the entire square bounded by Papineau road, St. Catharine street, Shaw street, Kent street and Joseph's lane is destroyed, or in flames. The flames are rapidly spreading to the blocks of brick dwellings and stores on the south and east without any possibility of guessing where the fire will be stopped. Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property have been consumed, but owing to the immense heat it is impossible to get near enough to it to obtain correct details as to losses or insurances. The fire started in the great lumber yard of Prefontaine, Brousseau & Co., and spread with tremendous rapidity. At first a high wind spread the flames over St. Bridget's and St. Luke's churches on Champlain street and to the immense French lying-in hospital. Only a change of wind saved these structures and possible fatalities had the fire burned them. Never has the department worked so hard as this morning. Men lay in the streets while their comrades poured water on them to save them from burning to death. Several of these men are seriously burned and it seems almost impossible that the fire should end without some fatality. A Mrs. Tatta, living on Shaw street, is ill in bed, and to remove her, so intense was the heat, that several men narrowly escaped with their lives. A partial list of the losers, the majority of whom are probably total, is as follows: A. Brosseav, lumber mills; J. Prefontaine, lumber mills; Charles Brouillette & Co., sash factory; Lauriers & Co., engine manufacturing company; the Bordeau and Bondoin lumber yards; J. Beauchamp, hotel; D. Glean & Bros., manufacturers; S. Happin, A. Parent, groceries and wines; T. Parent, boarding house; St. Joseph Beauchemins, hotel; T Thomas, boarding house; Mrs. G. Tatta, boarding house; Mrs. A. Green, dwelling. More or less damage was done to houses from 135 to 147 Papineau road and from 102 to 145 Shaw street.

THE OTTAWA SCANDAL.

Money Drawn by Regular Clerks Under False Names.

(Special to the TIMES.)

OTTAWA, July 14.—At the privileges and elections' committee this morning, Noel, Manager of the Quebec Bank, Ottawa, swore that he was treasurer of the Langevin testimonial fund, and identified a receipt signed by himself, acknowledging a "donation" of $5000 from Larkin, Connolly & Co. That firm might have given other donations, but he could not swear. The committee issued an order for all of Noel's cash books.

Peters, a Quebec contractor, said he was one of the tenderers in the Crosswall contract. He produced a letter written by him to the Deputy Minister of Public Works, Burgess, calling that gentleman's attention to the fact that his tender was much lower than that of Larkin, Connolly & Co. He swore that in a few items there was a difference between these two tenders of $134,670. Just at the close of to-day's proceedings, Murphy was called upon and swore that Lightfoot was the name of the clerk whom he gave $100 out of $2000 originally "donated" to Perley.

J. T. Jennings and Walter Shanley were appointed as expert engineers to examine the plans, etc., of contracts, and to report to the committee.

OTTAWA, July 14.—At the public accounts committee to day the investigations into the Interior Department were continued.

McCabe, an extra clerk was examined and said that he was in the habit of sharing the proceeds of money with the clerk who certified to the extra work he had done. He did this regularly with J. S. Brough and also with Frank Nelson. This was of course done to evade the Civil Service Act, which prevented permanent hands from getting extra pay.

Palmer, a discharged employee, charged some of the permanent clerks with getting extra clerks to put in accounts for various sums from twenty to one hundred dollars, certifying to them themselves and giving from four to five dollars for the use of these clerks' names. He said he was a strong Conservative and that these affairs were the talk of the town.

Decision in Electric Lamp Case.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Judge Wallace, in the United States Supreme Court to-day handed down his decision in the case of the Edison Electric Light Co., vs. the United States Electric Light Co. Plaintiff charged the defendants with an infringment of a patent granted to T. A. Edison, on January 27, 1880, for improvement in electric lamps. The plaintiff claimed that every incandescent light for electric lighting consisting essentially of filamentary carbon burners heremetically sealed in a glass vacuum chamber, comes within the terms of the patent. Judge Wallace says: "The question as to the validity and scope of patents has been adjudicated in courts of England and Germany with a diversity of opinion by the judges who considered them" The judge decided that the first claim of plaintiff had not been infringed by the defendant, because the leading wires of the United States lamps are not secured to filaments, according to the methods of the patent, viz., by cement carbonized in situ, but by clamps, such as the specification condemns. As to the second claim, Judge Wallace says: "It seems almost preposterous to argue that the substitution of the carbon filament for the platinum burner in lamps was an obvious thing to electricians." And the usual decree for an injunction and accounting was accordingly granted.

Disabled at Sea.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The steamship Olympia, from Mediterranean ports, arrived yesterday. The captain reports that on July 11, about noon, while in latitude 40.52, longitude 67.18, the Olympia spoke the ss. Schiedam, from Rotterdam for New York, with her crank shaft broken. Assistance was offered to the Schiedam, but declined, as the captain expected to be able to make temporary repairs such as would enable her to proceed to port. She reported all well on board. The steamship England, from London, England, on the same day at 6 p.m., reports passing the Schiedam in longitude 43, latitude 67, slowly proceeding on her course under steam. From her appearance, temporary repairs had been effected in the interval since passing the Olympia.

The Kaiser Visits Leith.

LONDON, July 14.—The provost and town council of Leith, together with the the German consul and many distinguished persons and a large crowd of people were present at the station when the train on which the Kaiser travelled, arrived at that city this morning. On alighting from his carriage the Emperor shook hands with the entire party and bowed his acknowledgments of the cheers of the people gathered about the station and approaches thereto. After a few moments spent in conversation, the Emperor was escorted to the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern, which had preceded his majesty to Leith. Without any delay the Emperor and his attendants embarked and the handsome vessel steamed out to permit the Kaiser to enjoy a view of the great Firth bridge.

Do not Invest in California.

LONDON, July 14.—The report of Mr. Mortimer, British vice-consul at Los Angeles, Cala., just issued, says: "Great dangers beset investors in Southern California from promoters in London and from mismanagement by English managers, who are not familiar with the country and from impositions of venders here." Mr. Mortimer adds that he is reluctantly compelled to advise English capitalists not to invest in that part of the country, and quotes San Francisco newspapers as declaring that company's floated in London for the past five years have been miserable failures, while many have been out and out swindles.

Blown to Atoms.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The tramp steamship R. C. Booth, 2000 tons burden, lying at the foot of Richard street, Brooklyn, with a cargo consigned to Spence & Co., of New York, was seriously damaged this morning. While unloading a box of dynamite cartridges, they exploded, killing two men and two others were wounded. One of the men was blown to pieces by the explosion and fragments of his body were found strewn some distance from the scene. The pieces were gathered up and placed in a box. A large hole was blown in the starboard side of the ship, and at last accounts she was sinking.

Destructive Fire in Pittsfield.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 14.—Bracken's new brick block on North street, was destroyed this morning by fire. At 1.36 p.m., it was not under control. Loss over $100,000, including Best Bros' extensive carriage works. Occupying the upper story and south store were Canfields hardware store, Fanvell & Fahey's drug store, a millinery store and two others. The fire caught in Vannettne & Tucker's steam laundry on the second floor. J. M. Burn's block and the American Hotel are in great danger and the fire department is all at work.

A Town in Flames.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 14.—A destructive fire is raging at Foster village in Susquhanna county, nearly 30 miles north from this city. The Farmers Hotel, a three story frame building has been destroyed, and passenger and freight depots of the Deleware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad are on fire and other buildings are threatened. The town is without any fire apparatus. An engine was sent by special train from here.

Declined the Honor.

SCARANTON, Pa., July 14.—General Master Workman Powderly, of the Knights of Labor, has forwarded to Governor Pattison a declination of his appointment as a World's Fair commissioner from Pennsylvania.

Railroad Presidents Meet.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The railroad presidents and eminent financiers who compose the advisory board of the Western Traffic Association met at the Windsor Hotel in this city this forenoon at 11 o'clock.

Disastrous Fire in a Coal Mine.

LONDON, July 14.—By a fire in the West Stanley Colliery, at Sonnset, near Durham, to-day, the pithead was wrecked and the machinery destroyed; loss, $300,000

Britton B. Osler, Q.C., whose voice is thunder and whose mind is lightning, now employs his tongue tearing the few remaining shreds of character from the lying backs of Tarte's witnesses. He may succeed, probably will succeed, but while he takes O. E. Murphy's character away, his genius has not presented Uncle Thomas McGreevy or Sir Hector Langevin with a character better than their present mighty bad reputations.—Toronto Telegram (Cor.)

THE METZ ELECTIONS.

BERLIN THROWN INTO A WHIRL OF EXCITEMENT.

The Result at Variance with the Anticipations of the Germans—President Carnot's Narrow Escape—The Pistol was not Loaded with Lead.

LONDON, July 14.—Official circles in Berlin have been thrown into a whirl of excitement over the result of the municipal elections at Metz, which is at variance with the predictions of the authorities and the hopes of the German public. The tremendous efforts exerted by the Emperor, through Prince Hohenlohe, the governor of Alsace-Lorraine and in other ways to bring about the thorough Germanization of the conquered provinces were believed to have well-nigh accomplished the object sought, so of late there has been a noticeable relaxation of the stringency which for a long time characterized the administration of the special restrictive laws and regulations governing that territory. The election of 23 anti-German members of a municipal council, whose total membership is only 32, is therefore not only a complete surprise, but is also a humiliating defeat for the government. Though the result, however, is a great triumph for the anti-German element in Lorraine it cannot be regarded as a victory, for the Government may be expected to promptly restore the harsh measures to which it had recourse a year or two ago in its campaign of Germanization and it may also be relied on to still further restrict the freedom of speech and action of the inhabitants of the border provinces.

EXAGGERATED REPORT.

A dispatch from Paris says that a great deal of capital has been made out of the alleged attempt upon the life of President Carnot yesterday by the President's partizans. From the accounts of the incident received here it does not appear that any serious attempt was made to assassinate President Carnot. Indeed it is asserted the pistol discharged by the so-called assassin was not only not pointed at the President, but was not loaded with ball. The President, who was not in the least excited, was showered with congratulations last evening on his perilous escape from death, the most of which emanated from place seekers and tuft hunters. M. Carnot has been extremely fortunate in two or three incidents of this kind that have happened since his election to the presidency, in having for an assailant upon each occasion a drunken madman who had no deadlier purpose than to attract to himself if, indeed, he had any object whatever.

MET WITH STRONG OPPOSITION.

Belgrade advices state that the recent decision of the Servian Cabinet to resume negotiations with the Vatican to determine the status of the Catholic Church in Servia has met with a wave of popular disfavor, which it is believed will prove too strong for the ministry to resist. Even the clergy of the Catholic church in Servia take but a languid interest in the question, preferring to let matters rest as they are rather than to pursue an aggressive course in which in the end they may be left in a situation worse than the one they now occupy, and the people are indisposed to silently endure any further encroachments of the church of Rome upon the little religious liberty they now enjoy. The idea of renewing the efforts to strengthen the Roman church in Servia, originated in Vienna, where it is assumed that any advantage gained by the Vatican in the negotiations will also be to the advantage of Austria. The opposition to the resumption of negotiations is not, as might be supposed, confined wholly to the pro-Russian element, but it is so widespread as to comprise a majority of the anti-Russian population as well.

DECOBAIN TO BE SUMMONED.

The perfunctory motion introduced by Mr. Goschen in the House of Commons last night, summoning the unsavory DeCobain from his secure retreat, to appear before the House and answer the charges made and substantiated against him, created much quiet amusement. Among the Liberals, of course, the motion was agreed to, but nobody believes that the oily and hypocritical member for East Belfast will obey the summons, which would be tantamount to his thrusting himself into jail, covering his erstwhile party associates with confusion. DeCobain abroad is worth any number of DeCobain's at home to the Conservative party just now.

TRUE BILL AGAINST DUNCAN.

A Carnarvon dispatch says the grand jury found a true bill against Duncan, the American charged with attempting the murder of his wife in the mountains near Bettusyiceed, North Wales.

Religious war in Palestine.

LONDON, July 14.—Advices from Constantinople state that the insurgents have proved successful all along the coast and in the interior. The action of the porte in limiting the privileges of the Greek Christians at Bethlehem has caused an appeal to Russia and Greece. Several more fights have taken place at the sacred grotto between the Greeks and Catholics, and the worshippers go armed with great clubs for the purpose of fighting their way in and out.

What a Frenchman Advocates.

PARIS, July 12.—Gaulois publishes a communication from a leading diplomat advocating a formal alliance between France and Russia, based upon France's assisting Russia in the occupation of Constantinople and both France and Russia attacking England's supremacy in Egypt and the East.

Soleil warns the government that such a policy would be full of dangers, and that the French people would never assent to the dismemberment of Turkey as the price of an alliance with Russia.

EGAN TO BE EJECTED

From Chili as Soon as Balmaceda's Government is Overthrown.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Patrick Egan, United States Minister to Chili, will be unceremoniously ejected from that country as soon as the government of Balmaceda is overthrown. This statement was made this afternoon by Wm. Hoffman, a participant in the councils of the congressional party and who arrived in this country on the Itata. He declares that the minister is playing into the hands of Balmaceda to antagonize the English, who are sympathizing with the revolutionists. He also charges him with causing the arrest of the Itata, by notifying the Chilian minister in Washington of her errand. Mr. Hoffman says that the final assault of the revolutionists upon the remaining cities of Balmaceda will be made the last of August and that there is no doubt of the downfall of the usurper.

HARVEST PROSPECTS.

Estimated Production and Consumption of Wheat in France for 1891.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—A report on the harvest prospects in France and Europe has been received at the State Department from Commercial Agent Griffin, of Lions, France. The National Millers' Association of France, the report says, has just issued an estimate of very carefully collected data of the probable wheat harvest of France and Europe for 1891. In order to meet the demand of France until the harvest is gathered in 1892, it is necessary to see how much wheat was yielded by the crops in 1890 and the quantity imported. The official figures of the yield for 1890, given by the minister of agriculture, are 119,436,827 hectoliters. There is a monthly consumption of 8,000,000 hectoliters, requiring for a year's supply 108,000,000 hectoliters. About 15,000,000 hectoliters are used for seed, so that the present average need of wheat in France per annum is 123,000,000 hectoliters. This year there must be added to this amount 5,000,000 hectoliters which is required for resowing where the grain has been frozen or injured, making a total for the year of 128,000,000 hectoliters. The estimated yield of wheat for 1891 will be 82,779,000 hectoliters. This is the maximum estimate. It will be 32 per cent less than the harvest of 1890.

Extraordinary Precautions.

LONDON, July 13.—It is probable that the Scotland Yard officials and the railway managers will feel like holding praise meetings after to-morrow, in view of having gotten safely through with the Emperor William. Inspector Melville told a sympathizing reporter at Hatfield House, to-day, that nobody would ever know the extent of the anxiety at the Yard since July 4th. Every person known to entertain extreme views on socialistic or political questions, whether he be native or foreign born, has been shadowed night and day, to make sure that he committed no overt act against the Kaiser. The precautions that were taken by the railway companies have been unprecedented. The number of conductors and guards is doubled. The chief officers of the railway will be aboard the train. All traffic on the road is to be shunted and the track kept absolutely clear for twenty minutes, before and after the Emperor's train passes. The station-master at every station, whether or not it be a stopping-place, has been ordered to be personally on the platform at his station for twenty minutes before and after the train passes. A man is to be placed at each pair of facing points, at each end of every tunnel and every level crossing.

A Close Call.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 14.—General H. Nettleton, president of the Kansas City, Fort Scott, Memphis and other lines, comprising the great gulf system, narrowly escaped death by asphyxiation last night. He entered his bath room to take a bath, and being overcome by the heat, fainted. A strong wind blew out the gaslight, and the bathroom was soon filled with gas. The general was not missed until this morning, when search was made for him, and finally the door of the bathroom was broken open. He was found stretched out in the bath-tub, black in the face, and apparently nearly dead. The best physicians in town were summoned, and after an hour's hard work, they succeeded in bringing him back to consciousness. This evening the general was still very weak, but was declared to be out of danger.

Wannamaker Will Not Resign.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The Recorder's Washington special says: The Recorder's representative called on Post Master General Wannamaker at his residence this evening and asked him concerning the statement wired from here that Mr. Wannamaker's resignation would certainly be received this fall, also that he was availing himself of the plea that business required his personal attention in order to escape from an awkward position. The Post Master General said his official relations were pleasant and harmonious, that business affairs did not require his presence and that he had not the slightest intention of resigning. Referring to the dispatch Mr. Wannamaker said: "It is simply the wanderings of an insane man, nothing more.

"On Earth as it is in Heaven."

LONDON, July 14.—Ben Tillett, the well-known labor agitator, will, at the request of the congregational conference, read to-morrow, a paper on the relation of the church to the labor and the social questions. The essay is entitled, "On Earth as it is in Heaven." It comments on the spirit of the Pope's encyclical on the labor question, though it repudiates the Pope's conclusion that private property is a sacred institution. The attitude of churches in general toward the social problems is condemned by Tillett, who sarcastically declares that while the parsons denounce the Prince of Wales for playing baccarat, they shut their eyes to the operations of the sweaters and heartless capitalists who rob the laborers of both body and soul. Tillett says: "If religion is ever to be more than mere talk, it must descend to practical matters. To gain the adhesion of laborers, it must emancipate them from the fetters which now bind them, and which keep them in a degraded condition. The position of the laborer in America is essentially the same as in England, the difference being only of a degree, and even this is disappearing gradually. It is necessary for the church there, as well as here, to work for the social as well as the religious salvation of the masses. I would that the beautiful imagination and the strong intellect of the preacher be not used in picturing the felicity of heaven until earthly felicity is made possible." Tillett warns the church that if it fails to do its duty toward the social problem, the pulpit will lose its prower and Christianity will decay. Revs. Goodwin of Chicago, Fullerton, of Waltham, Mass., and Cordley, of Lawrence, Kan, will read papers during the session of the conference.

WORLD WIRINGS.

It was a Grand Reception—Poor Crops in Russia.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 13.—Guatemalan telegrams received by merchants here say that President Barillas is preparing for fight.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 13.—A report on prospects of the harvest precludes the hope that there will be any grain for export this season. The purchase of foreign corn is inevitable.

PARIS, July 13.—A meeting of railway employees to-day resolved that if the Paris-Orleans company refuse the demands of the workmen by Tuesday, there will be a general strike of the workmen of the five great railways.

LIVERPOOL, July 13.—At high tide in the Mersey to-day, a dam 250 feet wide, collapsed, the debris blocking the Shropshire Union canal and the Eastham section ship. The latter will be swamped at the next flood tide, unless the barrier is re-erected. An immense gang was put to work to restore the dam.

LONDON, July 13.—The Telegraph says that in the presence of an audience at Buckingham palace yesterday the German emperor said: "Tell everybody that I am most delighted with my welcome in England. It has been a reception which I might have expected only in my own country, and not outside of it."

THE MAGGIE MAC ARRIVES.

And the Schooners Ordered Out of Behring Sea.

The sealing schooners, or at least the majority of them, are now on their way home, having been met by the American revenue cutter Thetis and served with the president's proclamation and the international agreement to close Behring Sea. Captain Dodd, of the Maggie Mac, which arrived in the harbor last night, reports that shortly after the Danube left the fleet, the Thetis came up and warned them not to go into the sea. In company with the Maggie Mac were the schooners C. H. Tupper, Allie I. Algar, May Belle, E. B. Marvin, Ocean Belle, Viva, Aiknoko, Annie E. Paint, Henry Dennis and Bessie Rutter. The cutter came upon them in a dead calm, so that they had no chance to get out of the way. They lay for hours after they first sighted the smoke of the steamer, anxiously waiting for wind which unluckily did not come. If they had had any wind at all they might have avoided the cutters and got into the sea, and probably increased their catches.

Accompanying the proclamation furnished the schooners were notes from the commander of the Thetis warning the schooners not to enter Behring Sea, and informing them that all the warships would be furnished with the names of the schooners warned. If they entered the sea, Commander Ritter said they would be liable to seizure without further notice.

The Maggie Mac then shaped her course for Victoria, followed by the other schooners, the wind raising just about an hour too late. The E.B. Marvin is close behind the Maggie Mac. Captain Dodd re-provisioned his schooner at Sand Point at a cost of $450, which is more money spent for nothing. She got three skins on her way down, which brings her catch up to 688.

Yacht Designer Burgess Dead.

BOSTON, July 13.—Edward Burgess, the celebrated yacht designer, died from typhoid fever here yesterday afternoon. He was born at West Sandwich, Mass., June 30, 1848. He graduated from Harvard College in 1871. He was instructor in entomology at Hartford for some years. For 15 years he was secretary of the Society of Natural History of Boston. Mr. Burgess built the famous yachts Mayflower, Puritan and Volunteer, which so successfully defended the America cup.

To the Death.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 14.—In Blount county, Sunday night, William Hollingsworth and John McCoy, two prominent farmers, fought a duel to the death. Hollingsworth was accused by McCoy of making indecent proposals to the latter's sisters. McCoy fractured Hollingsworth's skull with a rock, and Hollingsworth stabbed McCoy three times. Both men died yesterday.

What Your Great-Grandmother Did.

She hetcheled the flax and carded the wool, and wove the linen, and spun the tow, and made the clothes for her husband and ten children. She made butter and cheese, she dipped tallow candles to light the house at night, and she cooked all the food for her household by an open fireplace and a brick oven. Yes; and when she was forty years of age, she was already an old lady whose best days were over. Her shoulders were bent and her joints enlarged by hard work, and she wore spectacles and a cap. Her great-granddaughter, with all the modern conveniences for comfort, refinement and luxury, may be as charming and attractive at forty-five as at twenty. Especially is this true if she preserves her health and beauty by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which wards off all female ailments and irregularities, cures them if they already exist, keeps the life current healthful and vigorous, and enables the woman of middle age to retain the freshness of girlhood upon brow and cheek, the light of youth in her eyes, and its elasticity in her step. Sold by all druggists.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

PERLEY'S JEWELLERY.

The Chief Engineer's Statement to the Privileges Committee.

[Ottawa dispatch to Winnipeg Tribune.]

Major Henry F. Perley, chief engineer of the public works department, this morning appeared before the committee on privileges and elections and confessed to having received $1885 worth of jewelry from O. E. Murphy, a member of the firm of contractors with whom Perley's department had such extensive dealing. Perley took the witness stand, and Osler told him that Murphy had sworn yesterday to making a gift of jewelry to Perley amounting in value to $1885. Perley's statement was as follows: What Mr. Murphy says is true. He came to my house in Quebec in 1887, and said the firm wanted to give me a mark of their appreciation of my kindness to them and ability as an engineer. Murphy had in his hand a package which he said contained money. I said "No." (Here Mr Perley was very dramatic.) He wanted to leave it on the piano before going away. I said "No." As Mr. Murphy was so persistent, I finally said, "You could send me some little souvenir. I could wear a ring." When I reached home in Ottawa I found an express box at my house containing some articles of jewelry and other things. I kept them; but when next in Quebec, three months later, I met Mr. Murphy and I took him to task for what he had done. I told him he should never have sent me what he did. A few days later Mr. Murphy handed me the account for the articles. I was simply astounded at the bill. Here is the bill he gave me:

22 St. James' Street,
Montreal, Jan. 26, 1887.

Bought of Henry Birks & Co., Jan. 26:

To one case silver fruit knives and forks	$ 120 00
One dozen silver teaspoons	19 00
1 doz. silver desert spoons	17 50
1 dozen silver table spoons	32 50
1 doz. silver desert forks	18 00
1 doz. silver table forks	25 00
1 silver butter knife	4 50
1 mustard spoon	1 65
1 sugar spoon	1 65
1 pair salt-cellars	2 25
1 sugar ladle	4 35
1 cream ladle	3 35
1 cream service	10 75
1 fruit spoon	11 25
6 napkin rings	24 70
1 fruit bowl and spoon	50 00
1 soup ladle	41 00
1 brush and comb	28 00
1 water setts	55 00
1 diamond tar pin	245 00
1 pair diamond earrings	505 50
1 sapphire and diamond bracelet	170 00
1 diamond ring	367 50
1 diamond ring	92 50
1 diamond stud	167 00
Total	$ 2,119 55
Less discount	225 70
Total	$ 1,875 50

This account was receipted on the day it was made out, January 26, 1887.

"Gentlemen," continued Mr. Perley, "this matter effected me ever since so much so that I repaid the amount of the bill to Mr. Michael Connolly. I may say to the committee I acknowledge my error."

Under examination, Mr. Perley said he repaid the amount by giving in September, 1889, an I.O.U. to Michael Connolly payable on 31st August, 1891, so as a matter of fact not a cent of this money has yet been repaid, but an obligation to pay is said to have passed from Perley to Connolly

Sir John Thompson—"When did you come to the conclusion to repay the amount?"

Mr. Perley—"Two years ago, shortly after seeing Mr. Murphy."

"Had you means to repay the amount before September, 1889?"

Mr. Perley—"No."

"At the time you gave this I.O.U. to Connolly had these disclosures been made?"

Mr. Perley—"No; except what appeared in the House last session."

Mr. Mulock—"You have always been in a position to return these articles?"

Mr. Perley—"I have always been."

Mr. Mulock—"Then the proper thing would have been to have returned the articles?"

Mr. Perley—"Yes; that would have been the proper way."

Mr. Mulock—"Why did you repay this money to Michael Connolly?"

Mr. Perley—"Because I met him more frequently in connection with the Kingston graving dock."

"I knew Murphy was not a partner of Connolly then."

Mr. Perley then retired.

CANADIAN NEWS.

The End Not Yet—Closing of Lobster Factories Will Cause Destitution.

Hon. Mr. Tupper has introduced a bill to empower the inspectors of mills to reject bad tackle, gearing, etc., on ships.

Arthur H. Olmstead, Grand Trunk freight agent at Swanson, Ont., has been arrested on a charge of embezzling $1073.

Orangemen and their friends to the number of 5000 celebrated at Carleton Place yesterday the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

Dr. Selwyn, director of the Geological Survey, is on his way west to inspect the petroleum deposits of the Crow's Nest Pass Company.

Sir Hector Langevin informed Mr. Amyot, yesterday, that Mr. Tupper was acting on his own responsibility in advising Imperial federation.

The Independent Conservative papers are urging the Government to appoint a Royal Commission to enquire into the alleged boodling by public officials.

The Dominion House of Commons has passed the bill to incorporate the Buffalo & Fort Erie Bridge Company, which proposes to build a bridge or a tunnel at Niagara Falls.

At a meeting of the Iron Founders' Association in Hamilton the E. & C. Gurney Company withdrew from the Association, which is composed of all the prominent iron workers in the province. The withdrawal will result in a cut in prices.

The Department of Marine and Fisheries at Ottawa received a gold medal and gold watch from the United States Government as rewards for the bravery shown by Capt. Saulter, of the British ship Mariboro', and Capt. Mahoney, of the schooner M. L. Breck, of Kingston, in saving the shipwrecked crews of American vessels last year.

A young man named Thomas Taylor fell off a yacht while sailing at Owen Sound and was drowned.

The Junior Conservative Club of Montreal has decided to tender Premier Abbott a public banquet at the close of the Parliamentary session.

The final step in the annexation of certain portions of Barton township to the city of Hamilton has been taken, and the city's population is now estimated at 50,000.

The Macdonald National Memorial Committee had a meeting a few days ago and an advisory committee was appointed as well as a delegation to consult with Senators and legislators regarding the monument. As a starter, $1750 was at once subscribed.

The Kingston Whig recently said: "We have heard it whispered that if a Conservative is allowed to be elected by acclamation for the Dominion House, a Liberal will be accorded the same honor for the Ontario House. How will the party men feel over the suggestion?"

A dispatch from St. George's Bay, Newfoundland, says that Sir Baldwin Walker's proclamation closing 60 British lobster factories along the coast of Newfoundland, is practically an edict of starvation to hundreds of people, and unless the people of Canada organize a relief fund, great destitution, if not actual starvation, will ensue.

Prof. Robertson, Dominion Inspector, will leave Ottawa to-morrow for Brandon to attend the conventions of the Manitoba Dairymens' Association, and Northwest Live Stock Breeders' Association, where he will deliver an address. After visiting Indian Head, he will lecture at various points in the Fraser River and Okanagon Valleys.

In an article on last week's "Events in Ottawa," the Mail says, after speaking of the disclosures before the Privileges and Elections committee: "If the Public Works Department has suffered during the week, so, too, has the Department of the Interior, and in respect of that branch of the Government, the end of the enquiry is not by any means reached yet. The present week is to be marked by features not less sensational than those of the week just passed."

Goldwin Smith.

Goldwin Smith is opposed to Sir Charles Tupper in many ways, but doubtless both would agree that no better remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, headache, kidney troubles, skin diseases, etc., exist than Burdock Blood Bitters, the best family medicine known.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS
OH, MY BACK!
STOP IT NOW,
SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.
I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bed ridden. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my bedside. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost astonishing effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea in all instances as I have been.

THE OTTAWA MESS.

To acquit the Minister of Public Works by discrediting OWEN E. MURPHY, one of the chief witnesses against him, is the scheme of the Government at Ottawa, and the papers friendly to the Minister are enlarging on the exposure of Mr. MURPHY's shady career with that end in view. We may take the liberty of being sceptical as to the success of this plan. It is doubtless easy to show that MURPHY's character is not of the best; in fact that is generally admitted. By his own confession under cross-examination, he left New York a defaulter to the extent of $50,000, and did other things which show him to be inclined to rascality. But it is too much to ask people to believe that his evidence is to be rejected on account of his bad character, or even because Mr. OSLER contrived to tangle him up considerably in regard to some of his statements. Negative proof of this sort will not be sufficient; direct and definite disproof of the damaging evidence given is necessary. Mr. MURPHY's character was well enough known to his partners when he was taken into the now notorious firm. It was well enough known to "Uncle THOMAS" when the latter undertook to look after the firm's interests at Ottawa. Mr. PERLEY could not have been unacquainted with Mr. MURPHY's antecedents; at all events the jewellery episode must have enlightened him. Finally, Sir HECTOR himself could not have been ignorant of the facts during all the years in which MURPHY was interested in important contracts. The exposure of MURPHY's character to the public gaze now only makes matters worse for the Minister.

It is useless, too, for the Minister's friends to pretend that MURPHY's evidence stands alone. The published letters and departmental documents afford strong corroboration. Further confirmation is given by the PERLEY episode. The Chief Engineer has admitted his offence, and has been punished by getting his official head cut off, presumably by the accused minister. Of course the ministerial cry is that PERLEY alone was guilty; that it was through his agency all the favors were granted to the Connolly firm; that Sir HECTOR remained in innocent ignorance of the whole matter. In the way of this pleasant theory stands the reputation for careful and pains-taking administration which the minister has established for himself, which his friends have assiduously put forward as one of his chief qualifications for office and leadership. This reputation is no doubt well founded, and this makes it all the harder to believe that he could have been blind to the operations going on under his nose.

Then we must remember the fact that Sir HECTOR's accusers come from within his own party. Mr. TARTE is a respectable and consistent Conservative, claiming still to be a supporter of the Conservative policy, and wishing to free his party from the boodling element. It is well understood that at Mr. TARTE's back stands Mr. CHAPLEAU, whose motives are equally strong, though not equally praiseworthy. Evidently he regarded the charges against Sir HECTOR as well enough founded to be used in ridding himself of his rival.

It must be somewhat discouraging to Mr. TARTE and those who with him think that the present Government can be cleaned up and made respectable, to find that they are only at the commencement of their task. The process has to be repeated. Already a little light has been shed on the Department of the Interior, and if Sir HECTOR survives long enough, officially, his opportunity for revenge on the Secretary of State will come. Mr. CHAPLEAU has the first innings, of which he is making earnest use, but his opponent is dogged, and persistent, and may be depended on to retaliate on the Secretary when the time comes. It is unpleasant to look upon the mess of corruption which is now being stirred up, but the exposure is necessary to allow of the cleansing process and the establishment of a better order of things.

ANOTHER "MOMENT OF WEAKNESS."

Mr. FOSTER has again been overtaken with a "moment of weakness." During a recent discussion in Parliament on the removal of duty on binder twine, Mr. FOSTER reproached Mr. MULOCK who had introduced the motion to repeal, because the latter had not pressed forward his motion during the two months it had been on the order paper. "Why had Mr. MULOCK asked that it be allowed to stand?" inquired Mr. FOSTER. Mr. MULOCK declared that he had never asked to have the resolution stand, but that it had stood at the request of the Finance Minister himself. Mr. MULOCK being corroborated by scores of members, Mr. FOSTER was sufficiently abashed to rise and acknowledge that Mr. MULOCK was correct. But the matter was not alowed to drop here. Mr. MULOCK rose to his feet and inquired, "why Mr. FOSTER had asked that the motion be allowed to stand?" "I asked it to stand, because I thought the hon. gentleman wanted it to stand," was the confused reply of Mr. FOSTER that amazed even his own supporters. As time goes on the "Cheap JOHN" character of Sir JOHN's cabinet becomes painfully apparent. It is not that Mr. FOSTER is a Tory that we allude to these "moments of weakness" of his. It is because these moments of weakness are a disgrace not only to his party but the entire Dominion. They are a reflection on the common sense of the electorate. We can admire an artistic liar, but the false position in which Mr. FOSTER would have placed Mr. MULOCK by straining at the truth was unworthy of a man, a gentleman, and even a Tory.

MANIPUR.

However friendly the London Times is to the Home Government, it evidently takes little or no stock in Lord LANSDOWNE's administration of Indian affairs. Commenting on Lord RIPON's speech criticising the policy of the Indian Government, the Times agrees with Lord DERBY, that the Manipur expedition was a military blunder, the smallness of the loss of which "only renders more inexplicable the deforcement and defeat of the British detachment." But the Times makes it out a political as well as a military blunder. Says the Times: "The revolution in Manipur had been practically accepted, and relations of a friendly kind had sprung up between the British resident and the men it placed in power. To accept one of these men—the puppet—while punishing the other who gave him his position, and this after the lapse of five months, cannot be regarded, except by very partial critics, as a conspicuously sound bit of statesmanship. If we wanted a de jure ruler the old MAHARAJAH ought to have been reinstated. If we could not afford that luxury and had to be content with a de facto ruler, then it was absurd to expel the SENAPUTTY while retaining his tool. The character of the SENAPUTTY is said to have been infamous; but the evidence is not of a very conclusive kind. It is clear that he was not exactly an admirable person, but a Government ought to have grounds more relative than this for expelling a ruler. Mr. QUINTON and Mr. GRIMWOOD were both satisfied with the man as a governor, and he seemed ready and willing to defer to the paramount power. That was enough, unless we wanted to pose as the inflexible upholders of legitimacy, in which case there was nothing to be done but restore the expelled MAHARAJAH vi et armis."

As to the annexation of Manipur the TIMES is dubious of the policy of such a step. There are weighty reasons in favor of it, but it points out at the same time that "we do not want any more states to govern. The native Princes dislike annexation because it reminds them unpleasantly of their own tenure of power. Probably the inhabitants of Manipur would rather jog on in their slip shod way than be squeezed into uniformity by British tax collectors."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

JOHN D. ROCKFELLER is figured out to be worth $129,000,000, and he allows his two daughters $500 quarterly out of which they must dress themselves and pay all their incidental expenses.

The Committee on Banking and Commerce at Ottawa threw out the bills to grant incorporation to the Canadian Order of Home Circles and the Septennial League, which would have enabled them to act throughout Canada as life insurance societies on the assessment endowment plan. The ground taken was that all associations desiring to do a life insurance business should come under the Dominion Insurance law and be treated as the ordinary insurance companies are.

It is now stated that the Finance Minister is floating treasury notes on the London market in order to raise the money to supply the deficiency caused by the withdrawal of savings bank deposits. The notes run for a twelvemonth and draw interest at four per cent. It was once the habit of the Ottawa Government's organs to point to the increase in the savings bank deposits as an indication of the country's prosperity. What will they have to say to the above announcement?

"Taxes are a necessity," says the Toronto Empire. "In Canada we have to raise something like $46,000,000 or $8 per head every year, for the maintenance of our national Government, the development of our resources, and the promotion of public interests. Did it not occur to the Empire when it penned these words that if the Government concerned itself less with the "development of our resources and the promotion of public interests" something like half this tax would suffice? But no, $20,000,000 is required to keep up the prestige of the "grand old party." Cut down taxation! That would be the ruin of the Sir HECTOR's and the McGREEVY's and of the red parlor which is treason.

The Colonist quotes the TIMES this morning to the following effect:

"It was the duty of the Colonist when the TIMES attacked the Department, to ascertain the truth of the charges preferred, and, if untrue, to demonstrate it in black and white."

The Colonist says no! It would have been wrong and foolish had it done so. Upon what grounds then did the Colonist fly to the rescue of the Department of Education? Did it not first acquaint itself with the facts before it undertook the defense of "Honest JOHN's" Latin professors? But why argue with a person who is uncandid. Not until the Colonist answers the question put by the TIMES: DID OR DID NOT THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION MARK POOR LATIN SCHOLARS UP AND PROFICIENT LATIN SCHOLARS DOWN? can it defend the Department without stultifying itself. The pre-requisite of argument is to know what you are talking about, and of the case in question the Colonist has confessed ignorance. The "stern truth" compelled it to say that it knew nothing of the matter.

Immigration into the United States from 1820 to 1890 is the subject of a special report which has been prepared by the Chief of the Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department. The arrivals of immigrants from 1820 to 1890 have reached 15,641,088, Germany, Ireland and Italy sending the greatest number of immigrants. The only leading countries from which arrivals have fallen off during the past 10 years are France and China. The year of the largest immigration yet reported was that of 1882, when the arrivals were 778,992. For the fiscal year of 1881 the immigration from Italy was 15,401, and has steadily increased until 1890, when it was 52,000. Of arrivals during 10 years from 1881 to 1890, 61.1 per cent. were males. The greatest proportion of females came from Ireland, the smallest proportion from Hungary. Classification of the character of the immigrants during the past decade shows only 26,257 males were of the professional classes, 514,553 were skilled laborers, 1,883,325 of miscellaneous occupations, 73,327 made no statement of their occupation, and 759,450 were without occupation. Of 2,040,702 females, 1,724,454 were without occupation.

The world's wheat crop is at present giving an unusual amount of trouble to statisticians, who are sending forth estimates of endless variety as to the prospective supply and demand. Business men in Canada and the United States have their eyes anxiously fixed on the wheat fields, as their yield will constitute the chief factor in the commercial situation at the season's close. Present indications would seem to be decidedly in favor of the wheat growers of this continent, who look forward to a brisk demand in Europe for the plentiful harvest now in promise. Recent English estimates place the probable requirements of European countries at 412,000,000 bushels, of which Great Britain will take 152,000,000 bushels and France 136,000,000 bushels. It is estimated that to meet this demand there will be a surplus of 360,000,000 bushels from the exporting countries, so that making every allowance for inaccuracies, there should be an exceedingly good market for American wheat. The St. Paul Pioneer Press in reviewing the situation comes to the conclusion that the Northwestern States will not have more than an average crop, and it talks of the coming again of the days of "dollar wheat." In the Canadian Northwest, on the other hand, there is the promise of an extraordinary crop, which, if it meets with no disaster, will ensure abundant prosperity to that part of the country. Eastern Canada's product will not be large, owing to the severe drought, which prevented much of the spring grain from showing above ground. On the whole it is reasonable to expect a season of comparatively high prices for wheat and flour.

NO FLIES.

TO THE EDITOR.—It is reported in Victoria that mosquitoes are so plentiful at the Harrison Hot Springs that our guests are driven away by the mosquitoes. We beg to state for the benefit of those who are misled by these unfair and untruthful reports that no mosquitoes whatever are or have been, or will be this year at the Harrison Hot Springs. The very large number of guests who have been with us during the past two months can vouch for the first two clauses of this statement.

Due To-night

The steamer Batavia, which was due from Nanaimo last evening bound for the Orient, will not arrive until 6 o'clock this evening. She was detained taking on coal at Nanaimo until noon to-day.

Postponement.

In order to accommodate shippers, the departure of the steamer Princess Louise for the north is postponed till the arrival of the steamship City of Puebla from San Francisco, on Thursday evening.

Accepted a Rectorship.

Rev. H. Kingham, who was for some time one of the assistant clergymen at Christ Church cathedral, has sought and found a new field of labor. He has accepted the rectorship of a church at Great Falls, Montana.

Bound for Victoria.

The steamship City of Puebla sailed from San Francisco for Victoria to-day with the following passengers: R. W. Edwards and wife, E. B. Hinds and wife, F. Grey and wife, W. J. Lynn and wife, J. Doe, Miss Van Lesser, G. L. Firestine, W. Holloway, S. J. Booth.

Excursion to Cape Flattery.

The fine steamer Olympian will make an excursion to Cape Flattery on Saturday July 18th, leaving the wharf at the foot of Yates street at 1:30 p.m. and returning by moonlight. Fare for the round trip will be $1. A full band will furnish music. July 13-5t

A New Name.

A meeting of Manchester Unity, I.O.O.F., will be held in the Blue Ribbon hall, Esquimalt, on Wednesday evening. The object of the meeting is to decide upon a new name for the lodge, and also to initiate members. All members of the order are invited to be present.

Consigned to the Tomb.

A Valuable Dog.

The London News of July 4 has a picture of Princess Florence, a valuable St. Bernard, and a short description of the prizes she has taken. She is the property of Mr. Hedley Chapman, who refused repeated offers of $10,000 for her. She has just had a litter of pups, and Mr. Chapman disposed of several at $500 each, and refused sale of the rest.

Death of Mr. Alfred Barnsley.

Information was received to-day of the death, at Worcester, England, of Alfred Barnsley. Mr. Barnsley went home some months since in ill health. He was a brother of Mr. Barnsley the gunsmith here, and resided in this city about four years. He was an energetic and earnest worker in the Methodist congregation, by whom he was highly esteemed. Deceased was only 25 years of age.

B. C. Agricultural Association.

The prize list of the British Columbia Agricultural Association for the forthcoming exhibition on September 1st, 2nd and 3rd, has been issued. It represents the 15th annual provincial exhibition. There are in all 1083 first prizes offered, but as nearly all of the classes offer a first and second, and in many cases a third prize, the number is far more than doubled. There are several good special prizes offered, and music and sports are promised during the exhibition.

Five Dollars Apiece.

The weather is too nice to allow a man to be criminally inclined. It is too hard work to get drunk, and the three drunks who leant over the police court dock this morning had only reached the stage of inebriation through hard and persevering efforts. Justices of the Peace Shakespeare and Dalby gazed sorrowfully at them, and with a grave shake of the head mentioned in a casual sort of way "$5 or two weeks' imprisonment." There was a deposit of $15 made to the credit of their drunkships in the city vaults.

The Work of Incendiaries.

The fire that burned down the Indian village at Duncan's station on Saturday night is supposed to have been started by some Chinamen who reside in the neighborhood. It appears from what can be learned that the Indians had been quarreling for some time past over some whiskey deals. One of the Chinamen was fined $100 for supplying liquor to Indians. The Indians then broke the Chinaman's door in. This is supposed to have lead up to the firing of the village on Saturday. One of the Indians lost over $400 in cash.

A Commendable Purchase.

The park is the fortunate recipient of another handsome present. This time it is a large Dominion flag, about 40 feet long, and costing in the neighborhood of $100. It was purchased by Messrs. M. Young and M. Levi, from the surplus of the sum collected for a new set of colors for the steamer Victorian. Both colors and flag have arrived; the latter will grace the fine flag staff donated by Mr. Jensen, and the former will fly from the masthead of the handsome Victoria. Messrs. Young and Levi will receive a vote of thanks for their thoughtful outlay of the surplus of the money intrusted to them.

Preserving Season

The Place to go to.

To make room for our new stock of goods that is coming, we will sell the stock in hand consisting of gent's furnishing, etc., at prices that have no equal. Our children's jersey suits will all be sold at cost. Lion Gent's Furnishing House, 74 Yates street.

For Many Years.

We have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for many years in our family and find it an excellent medicine for all forms of summer complaint." John A. Valens, Valens, Ont. Fowler's Wild Strawberry. Price 35 cents, sold by all dealers.

The Pavilion.

The pavilion in course of erection at Oak Bay Harbor by Young, Bartlett & Co., will be two stories in height and will have a floor area of 5000 feet. It will be completed in the course of a week. The building will furnish accommodation for a band, for refreshment booths, and for visitors to take luncheon.

The New Flying Machine.

The new flying machine is exciting a good deal of interest at present, and the inventors are contemplating sending a balloon, without passengers, across the Atlantic as an experiment, preparatory to the trial of the air-ships. Many are dubious about the success of this invention, but all concede that as a flying machine tanglefoot fly-paper, which may be obtained from cochrane and muon, druggists, is a grand success. The public await with interest the trial of the new air ships.

Victoria's Business Capital.

The following figures have been prepared by the Commercial Journal and will prove interesting. It might be explained that a number of lines not specified in the annexed table are included in one or other of the heads. There is also omitted the considerable capital employed in shipping, mining, and various other enterprises not operating directly within the mercantile circles of Victoria. The large capital represented by the Hudson's Bay Co., the banks, professional men and butchers is also omitted. Together with this may be mentioned the fact that the figures are largely representative of the actual surplus over and above liabilities:

Clothing, tailoring, etc.	$ 296,000
Dry goods, including millinery and fancy goods	885,000
Boots and shoes, leather goods, etc.	208,000
Groceries, etc.	1,086,000
Liquors, tobacco, cigars, etc., including breweries, restaurants, etc.	575,000
Produce, milling, etc.	213,000
Stationery, notions, including musical instruments, etc.	183,000
Hardware, plumbing, stoves, etc., including oilmen's stores, ironworkers, etc.	809,000
Drugs, bakery and confectionery	495,000
Furniture and house furnishings	388,000
Lumber, sash and door, bricks, contracting, etc.	690,000
Blacksmithing, carriages, etc.	99,000
Jewellery, etc.	161,000
Printing, publishing and bookbinding	125,000
Commission, real estate and general agency lines	1,170,000
Total	$7,177,000

THE OLD, OLD CHESTNUT.

Vancouver Papers Can't Take Pride in Their City Without a Shot at Victoria

The returns of the business transactions at the Vancouver post office for the six months ending June 30th, 1891, furnishes another proof of the rapid growth of the city. The amount of money orders issued in the six months was $75,500; the deposits in the Savings Bank were $19,300, while the sale of stamps amounted to no less than $11,000. The least item is $3000 in excess of the figures for the corresponding period of 1890, or an increase of over 17½ per cent. The post office statistics are about as accurate a guide of business activity and growth of population as can be found. People do not buy stamps for amusement, nor does an advance in that line arise from extravagant habits. It is simply the result of more business or an increase in population. The Vancouver post office now transacts the largest local business of any office in the province, the receipts of the Victoria office being swelled by its being the distributing office for stamps for the other offices in British Columbia.

This is from a Vancouver paper, the chief characteristic of which is that it cannot take an honest pride in the city's progress without having a covert shot at Victoria.

Although the official reports have not been made up for Victoria yet for the half year ending June 30, 1891, the sale of stamps for local use is just $19,500. That is independent of stamps issued to outside offices. A calculation of money orders issued in the same period gives $116,000 in round figures. There is also a slight difference between that and Vancouver's "largest local business in the Province" at $75,000. Then again the savings bank business here is larger than Vancouver, notwithstanding the fact that there is a Dominion bank in Victoria which does the heavier business that would otherwise fall to the P. O. Savings bank. The figures in this case also double Vancouver's. Perhaps it would have been just as well that that last spiteful sentence had not been written.

The following is the yearly income of the Victoria post office from its establishment to the end of the year 1890:

1880	$ 8,961 35
1881	9,528 10
1882	10,905 44
1883	13,250 03
1884	16,790 11
1885	20,737 66
1886	22,352 56
1887	23,756 94
1888	25,319 36
1889	28,049 59
1890	30,999 98

Perhaps people in Victoria buy stamps and money orders for amusement.

CHAS. BARTLEY KILLED.

He Meets His Death in the New Jewell Building.

There have been very few accidents recorded as occurring in or around the large number of buildings that are being built in Victoria, but this morning one of the saddest and most sudden occurred at the new Jewell block, corner of Yates and Douglas streets. Charles Bartley, a carpenter, was engaged on the third story of that building carrying a scantling when, without a moment's notice, his life was cut short. The accident was so sudden that those around could hardly realize that their comrade was dead. The scantling which the deceased was carrying, projected about three feet over the elevator shaft. The elevator, which is used for carrying building material, was unfortunately lowered at this moment and the scantling which the man held in his hand was struck by it. The scantling flew up and struck the unfortunate man in the face knocking him down. He fell heavily on a sharp piece of wood which pierced his skull cutting a gash fully an inch deep. The men working in the vicinity ran to the man's assistance but all they could do was to pick him up, as he was far beyond earthly care. He did not utter a word after he fell, and died almost instantly. Dr. Watt was called, but he could not even prolong life. Officer Redgrave, who was on his beat, took charge of the body and handed it over to Messrs. Lockhart & Co., undertakers. The deceased was a favorite among his fellow workmen, but very few know much about who he was. He had been in the city but a short time and has formerly lived in Ontario. He was a man of about fifty years of age, and leaves a widow and two children to mourn his loss. His wife and daughter reside in London, Ont., and a son is at present in Vancouver. The latter will be communicated with, and it is expected that he will be down to take charge of the remains.

Coroner Morrison held an inquest this afternoon with the following gentleman as jurymen:—H. Noble, Geo. Munroe, H. Short, A. Holmes, W. Dawley and John Teague, jr.

After hearing a number of witnesses the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death.

MAJOR-GENERAL SCHOFIELD.

United States Army Officers on a Visit to Victoria.

Major-General and Mrs. John M. Schofield, Captain C. B. Schofield, Lieut. T. H. Bliss, and Lieut. A. D. Andrews arrived in the city last evening by the City of Kingston and are now at the Driard House. The General and Mrs. Schofield are on their wedding tour, but the former is taking the opportunity of examining the Sound with a view to making recommendations to Congress for the construction of coast defences.

The General is a man of good stature, broad shoulders and rather corpulent figure, wears a gray beard and mustache, has kindly blue eyes and full face, with rather ruddy complexion. The remark was made of him with some truth that he looks more like a bank director than a soldier. Mrs. Schofield is a young woman of slender, graceful figure, and fair, handsome face. The party spent to-day in driving around the city and will leave this evening for the Sound.

General Schofield is a native of New York, and will be 60 years old on the 29th of September. He was graduated at West Point in 1853, in the same class with Phil Sheridan, James B. McPherson and John B. Hood. When the war broke out he entered the volunteer service as major of the First Missouri Volunteers, and was appointed chief of staff to General Nathaniel Lyon, with whom he served in the Missouri campaign, including the battle of Wilson's Creek, when General Lyon was killed. After that he was in command of the departments of Missouri and Ohio, collected forces near Chattanooga for Sherman's invasion of Georgia, was in the Atlanta campaign, helped Thomas to resist Hood's invasion of Tennessee, and was present at the surrender of Johnston. In June, 1868, General Schofield succeeded Edwin M. Stanton as secretary of war, and was in command of the division of the Pacific from 1870 to 1876. He was president of the board that adopted the present tactics for the army, went on a special mission to the Hawaiian islands in 1873, and was president of the board of inquiry of Fitz-John Porter in 1878. General Schofield will retire from the army in 1895.

Major-General Schofield and staff this morning visited Esquimalt where they were received with all due formalities by Admiral Hotham. Previous to setting out, however, the General was called upon by Mr. Myers, United States consul. To that gentleman the distinguished visitor spoke in the highest praise of Victoria, which he considered an incomparably beautiful place. This afternoon he called upon His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, by whom he was received with the honor befitting his rank.

EMBEZZLED FROM THE UNION.

The Longshoremens' Financial Secretary Arrested Last Night.

Since Friday last the city police have been looking for E. D. Porter, the ex-financial secretary of the B.C. Longshoremen and Steamshipmen's Protective and Benevolent Association. Porter left the city by the steamer Olympian on Friday, leaving his books in a very unsatisfactory state. He went to Port Townsend, where he was located yesterday. Officer Redgrave, who was detailed on the case, left for Port Townsend last evening, and by some good police work succeeded in landing Porter in the city lockup by 5:30 this morning. The officer went over on the Kingston last evening and arriving in the Key City commenced the search for the missing financial secretary. He found him in one of the hotels of that city and with the assistance of the chief of the Port Townsend police, coaxed Porter to board the steamer Olympian, on which steamer the officer and prisoner arrived this morning. Porter, of course, did not have to return with the officer, but if he had not done so the Union would have had him extradited. The warrant with which he was arrested charges him with embezzling $100 from the Union. The amount missing is, however, over $100. Porter came up in the police court this morning and was remanded until to-morrow. The police have a strong string of evidence to present against him. They have a letter in their possession written by Porter, in which he says he was afraid that he would be caught and also that he would travel under an assumed name.

Treatment of the Strawberry.

Lindurbank writes in the Witness:—There is no fruit that is more injured by the management of dealers than the strawberry. When brought from almost any distance whatever, in a ripe state, it is mashed into pulp. Consequently, to satisfy the demand for berries as early as possible, they are gathered while unripe and hard. One reason why the Wilson is so popular as a market berry is that it looks red before it is ripe, and is, therefore, attractive to buyers. But the Wilson, when fully ripe, is of a dark, purple hue, and those who have only eaten the Wilson when red have no idea of its flavor when it has gained the purple tint. There is a prejudice against the Wilson as a sour berry, which has arisen out of its being gathered and eaten while only in the red stage. "What a lot of sugar it takes!" is the usual exclamation in regard to it. Now, a thoroughly ripe Wilson needs no sugar, and any strawberry that requires sugar, when naturally ripe, may be set down as of inferior quality. There is only one way of improving a really good strawberry, that has ripened fully and naturally, and that is by its being "smothered with cream,"—not milk, but genuine, fresh, sweet, delicious cream. While enjoying such a dish one is reminded of Dr. Johnson's remark:—"No doubt the Almighty might have made a finer fruit than the strawberry, but it is quite certain he never did." But few people know how a good ripe strawberry really tastes.

ANXIOUS FOR CIVILIZATION.

Spaniards as Barbarous as They Were When They Conquered Mexico.

A special to the San Francisco Chronicle from Honolulu, dated, June 30, says: On the missionary steamer, the Morning Star, came some of the American missionaries whom the Spanish ejected from Ponape. With them came Nanpei, a chief of one of the tribes of that island. It was owing to this chief's influence that his tribe refrained from warfare with the Spaniards. He is a man of fine physique, good features and manly bearing. He speaks the English language well and would not be out of place in any refined home circle in America. Being educated, as are many of his people, he knows full well the hopelessness of a struggle for independence of their little handful against the power of Spain. He comes to see if the influence of the Anglo-Saxon race, in whose language he was taught all he knows of our higher civilization, is sufficient to save his people from destruction.

His race is a race of high aspirations, which has just tasted a little of our worthiest civilization, and longs for more. If their oppressors were the Spanish themselves it would not be so bad. They could at least respect the foreigner. But these so-called Spanish soldiers that have been poured into Ponape are Manila men, or mixed races, as dirty, ignorant and brutalized a people as can be found in the whole domain of civilization. Three hundred Ponapeans utterly routed 1200 of these so-called Spaniards. But the islanders' ammunition must give out. All they have now is what they take from the enemy. The war prevents their accumulating produce to buy more, even if venturesome schooners should be willing to take the risks of selling it to them. And unless some of the great powers of the civilized world step in, this honorable struggle for human rights, for the privilege of living in peaceful possession of the lands of their ancestors, must end in the island being overrun by a horde of filthy, ignorant, semi-Lascars, inferior in every respect to the race they will have cursed and ruined.

These Ponapeans are not negroes nor Malays; they are of the Polynesian race, very similar to the Hawaiians in feature and physique, but much lighter in color. They have displayed a marvelous aptitude in learning, have made healthy and honest progress in the arts of peace, have mastered a new language in their desire to escape from savagery, and are worth in the interests of civilization a thousand times more than all the semi-Lascar Manilamen in existence.

The Ponapeans were a people at peace with the world, rapidly advancing in knowledge and the arts of civilization under American teachers. Spain for some time had claimed sovereignty over the Caroline Islands. Now, the recognized idea of this species of sovereignty is that the sovereign nation shall teach and civilize the people who are subject. This Spain never did in Ponape. But when American missionaries had made some progress in the work that Spain neglected, then that nation, jealous of what they feared was a growing American influence, made a sudden descent on the island. They were received respectfully, the sailors' insolent brutalities borne patiently, and unreasonable demands complied with. At last, when the Spanish began a wanton destruction of property, they were resisted, attacked, and driven off with bloodshed. The Spanish, in retaliation, shelled and burned their villages. The mission buildings, the property of American citizens, were wantonly destroyed and the lives of American citizens, mostly women, were put in jeopardy.

The whole shameful story is worthy of Spain in the middle ages. And on account of the destruction of the property of American citizens without a shadow of excuse the United States is in a position to right this disgraceful wrong. Mr. Rand, who has been appointed Consul to Ponape, is now in Honolulu waiting to go down to that island on the Morning Star. But, of course, he will be almost helpless without an American man-of-war in the harbor. For such fellows as he has to deal with the only diplomacy that is of much avail is the self-evident fact of power. The presence of an American man-of-war in the harbor from time to time would in five minutes accomplish more toward the salvation of this people from an undeserved fate than all written diplomacy could do in five years.

Nanpei will go to San Francisco to plead in person the cause of his people.

COLONEL OF THE FOURTH.

A STORY OF THE WAR OF THE REVOLUTION.

By Bernard Bigby, Author of "Loyal at Last," "My Lady Fantastic," "Ellen's Great Secret," "Fell Among Thieves," Etc., Etc.

At first the poor wretch's tongue refused to utter abject prayers for pardon, but when in an agony of terror he saw them making the fatal preparations a torrent of wild supplications burst from his lips.

But the Major's face never relaxed a muscle.

"String him up, boys!"

Already the men's hands were forcing his neck into the noose, when another appeal from the doomed man was more effective.

"I will give the lives of six Union soldiers for my own—six strong, young men in the vigor of youth for this old, worn-out life of mine!" he cried, with despairing energy.

"What do you mean? Speak quickly, scoundrel, or it will be too late!"

"There are six Union prisoners hidden where you can never find them if I die with the secret on my lips, and where, if you slaughter me, they will perish with hunger and thirst, for I alone have fed them, and there will be no one to do it if you murder me."

"If he speaks the truth there is some sense in that," the Major said, reflectively.

"It is God's own truth," the man moaned. "If you will give your word to let me go free and unharmed I will make a clean breast of it and tell you where they are. Six young lives for one old one—think of it!"

"Yes, and such a worthless one as that you offer!" Major Hopkins said, tersely. "Well, prove your words, and I will accept the terms, even though I cheat the devil in giving you your life."

"And you will let no one injure me?"

"No one; but be quick about it or I may change my mind. Where are these men?"

"In a cellar under my own house."

"I might have thought of that," the Major said, annoyed to think that the miserable wretch was to escape his righteous punishment.

So Mr. Dixon was marched back to his own house, with the rope still around his neck and his hands tied behind his back, together with the horses and spoils of war, and the many wounded men, who, though most of them enemies, were treated with a wonderful tenderness by the rough soldiers.

It was even as Dixon had said. The men—one officer and five privates of an Iowa regiment—were found, gagged and bound with cords drawn so tightly that their flesh was cut as with a knife.

"We had to keep them quiet or you would have heard them," Dixon said, meeting the stern inquiry of the Major's looks.

"Unloose his bonds and let him go before I break my word and brain him where he stands!" Hopkins cried, unable to control his indignation.

Nor was the Major alone in his wrath, for it was with the utmost difficulty that the officers were able to restrain their men while the trembling wretch shrank from their sight.

When the rescued prisoners, whose tongues had been so cruelly tied by whip-cord, were able to speak, they were of course asked a hundred questions, and among them this:

"Do you know where Bragg is?"

"Yes," was the prompt reply, "he is off northwards with all the speed he can to Louisville."

"And Buell knows it not!" Major Hopkins declared, aghast at the significant importance of the news.

So, leaving the enemy's wounded to the tender mercies of the citizens of Winstanley, and despatching their own in a baggage wagon with a small escort, they mounted their newly-acquired steeds and hurried as fast as they could back to Buell's army.

"No wonder Southern gentlemen call such as our Winstanley friends 'white trash,'" the Major mused. "I have often felt surprise at the epithet, but now I think it suits them down to the ground."

CHAPTER XIII.

ALL FOR A WOMAN.

Human interest is always stirred to fever heat by a race, whether the competing objects be men in the arena, horses on the course or yachts or ocean steamers flying over the foaming waves, but here was a sight that made the dullest pulse beat fast—two armies rushing across a State, as big as a European country, in anxious haste to reach a spot that may be a key to pronounced victory. Bragg and Buell with their thousands were the participators in this stupendous struggle, with all the odds of an early start in favor of the former, but the Union General reached the goal first, and so foiled one of the finest efforts of his astute antagonist, whose record during his brilliant career was second only to Lee's among the Southern commanders as an expert tactician.

But though foreshadowed in his intention, the Confederate leader seized the opportunities left to him, with consummate skill, flooding the State with appeals to loyalty to his cause, inspiring them by the presence and boasted successes of his troops to join his standard, and making almost superhuman efforts to win the Kentuckians to a declaration of secession. He went further than Lee had ventured to do in Maryland, daring even to create a provisional Governor and carry into effect a stringent conscription law. "Come into the folds of your brotherhood," was his passionate appeal by proclamation. "Cheer us with the smiles of your women, and lend your willing hands to secure the heritage of liberty."

And even when all this failed he won success from defeat by turning his demand for men into one for supplies, ravaging the rich lands of the northern part of the State with its fertile valleys and green pastures, until he had a wagon-train of supplies, forty miles long—clothing, boots, arms, two hundred loads of bacon, six thousand barrels of flour, two thousand horses and eight thousand beeves, and all this vast array of booty he dispatched in safety southward. Then, when this valuable feat was accomplished, he sullenly began a retrograde movement with Buell, whose delay had fretted the gallant troops he led almost beyond endurance, in tardy pursuit. Day by day the Union forces followed the retreating host, when on the 9th of October, as they reached the village of Perryville, Bragg turned upon them with sudden fury, and fighting from noon till eve, so crippled his pursuers that when darkness came on he was allowed unmolested to escape with all his plunder to Chattanooga.

In judging General Buell's actions during this campaign, it is but fair to remember that many of his failures were due to unavoidable misfortune and false information, and that he was pitted against a leader of exceptionable high qualities; but popular opinion did not stop to weigh these considerations, so on the last day of the same month he met the fate so often accorded to the unsuccessful General, deprivation of command. Thomas had refused to replace him, so Rosecrans, whose brilliant career in West Virginia had already become a matter of history, was appointed to this important command, and under these new auspices the Fighting Fourth with the rest of the army found themselves once more at Nashville.

The dusky shades of night were fast lengthening and the sun had set in crimson glory—the last departing blush of Indian summer—when on an early November evening the figure of a horseman might have been seen riding at a steady trot along a road which led in a southeasterly direction from Nashville. Ever and anon the traveler looked back over his shoulder with an expression of anxiety at the fair city he was leaving, and then grasping his bridle with more determination and spurring his horse to greater effort, as though he were there instigating himself to the accomplishment of something he was undertaking in only a half-hearted manner, fixed his eyes on lights which glimmered in the far distance and steadily pursued his journey without permitting any regret he might have entertained to distract him from his purpose. In the trim figure and handsome features of this solitary horseman it is not difficult to recognize our young friend, Charlie Fulton—but not the gallant, gay, light-hearted lad who marched from Columbus with high hopes and spotless soul, for in the rider to-night we see one whose face is drawn with care, one who would even now turn back from the fatal errand he is bent on if something stronger than his sense of honor did not drag him forward; and this something was the siren-figure of a woman, for whose favors he felt at that moment as if he would barter his very soul. As the mariner of ancient days looked on Scylla and dreaded Charybdis, he knew that he was risking two imminent dangers—being caught as a spy and hung, or arrested for treason and shot—but she had sent him word to come, and if a hundred deaths stood between him and her, for her sweet sake he would dare them all. Hour by hour he rode, each mile alternately as he neared his goal torturing him with remorse or thrilling him with expectation.

Ah! there is the signal—two lights burning in a garret window of the house he is at last approaching. Has he been there before? It seems so, for he dismounts and, leaving his horse tethered to a tree, advances up the very orchard path down which one memorable midnight Frank Besant fled so hurriedly.

And she meets him.

Radiantly beautiful in a dress so perfect that it allows the rounded loveliness of her exquisite figure to show its graceful lines and stir to the depths of his soul the impassioned youth as he gazes at the undulating form, worshiping with the fervor of a first love.

"You are come," she says, in an accent tremulously musical. "Yet I hardly thought you would dare another visit."

She permitted him to draw her to his breast and imprint a kiss upon the upturned face.

"Come!" he said. "When you say 'come,' my sweet one, there is no danger I would not dare to do your bidding."

ANOTHER HANDSOME HOME.

Mr. Robert Irving Has Chosen a Lovely Spot in Which to Take Life Easy.

The general impression of the tourist on first seeing Victoria is that it is a pleasant place of residence. On a little closer acquaintance he becomes positively attached to it, and seeks every opportunity of returning, if only for a few days. This fact is being made evident every day, when people return to Victoria through some peculiar and secret attraction which it has over them. They see that they are amid all the business activity of a city, and yet need not mingle in the turmoil and smoke. They can, here, more than anywhere else, share that grand heritage which Providence gives to both rich and poor alike—nature's glory; a pure, health-giving climate. Of course in Victoria, as in every other place, the wealthy man has considerable advantage, and here he can let his fancy run loose in devising means for his comfort and pleasure.

Mr. Robert Irving, a retired merchant prince of Portland, is one of those who saw Victoria and was conquered by her beautiful environments. He has reached that point when after an honorable and persevering course in the business world he is able to rest on his oars. He has dipped those oars in the peaceful waters of the calm and beautiful suburbs of Victoria, and can look out on the sea of life in the outside world where his brethren are still buffeting the tides of fortune and endeavoring to avoid the shoals of failure.

Mr. Irving has anchored in a beautiful spot on the corner of Richardson and Moss streets, where, on a slight elevation, he has built a house full of originality of design and beauty of conception. It is enclosed in ample and nicely laid out grounds, surrounded by a granite coping which gives it an air of substantiality. The house itself belongs to no particular style of architecture. Indeed, it might be said that, instead of conceiving an original design, the architect went to sleep and dreamed of a house composed of the elements of every architectural school, harmoniously blended, so as to make a beautiful jumble of ideas. It is what, in Germany, would be called a forester's house. There is a deal of ornamental woodwork on the exterior, which contrasts favorably, yet nicely, with the solidity and beauty of the interior.

The site is simply superb. It is on a slight elevation, surrounded by knotty old oak trees, which remind one very strongly of England's homes. It was under the protecting shade of one of these old veterans of the forest that Her Royal Highness Princess Louise sat and sketched the Olympian range, which loom up with solemn grandeur, evidencing forcefully the fact that distance lends enchantment to the view. The view is now enchanting, for from the balcony of the house stretches a tract of lovely pasture land dotted with trees; one of nature's parks. Beyond this lies the straits, the murmer of whose waters are borne gently on the breeze to and through the house. This is but the perspective of the grand natural picture which stands boldly out in the background—the great Olympians. But on all sides nature, without being extravagant, has showered her beauties with a lavish, but artistic hand.

The interior of the house is a peculiar combination of solidity, beauty, and artistic decoration. There has been no space lost. The hall is just spacious enough to be comfortable, and the same may be said of the rooms throughout the house. The appointments are all on the most modern scale. A feature of the hall is the massiveness of the handsomely carved oaken doors, with their jeweled panels representing rubies, sapphires, amethysts and diamonds. In the center of each panel are the initials or monogram "R. I." The floor is in rich tiling, and the ceiling of the hall as well as the drawing rooms, parlor and dining rooms are executed in flowers, so soft and inviting that one must look at them twice before realizing that they are artificial. Each room is carried out in a different design, but it is difficult to say which is the most tasteful. The work was done by two men who came specially from Chicago. They also decorated one room in the Dunsmuir residence; but their work in Mr. Irving's house excels anything in the city for artistic merit and finish. The floors of each of the downstairs rooms are inlaid with oak, cherry, maple and ash, the dining room being a picture of solid beauty. It is finished throughout in carved oak, with a massive sideboard of the same wood. Opening from the sideboard is a fire proof vault, where can be stored family plate, valuables and documents. The fittings in the parlor are of cherry, carried out in a light, easy design, which is a relief somewhat after the oaken massiveness of the dining room. The fire grates all through the house are of an antique (mostly Egyptian) character, finished in brass, with hand painted English tiling. In the drawing room is a cherry mantel, made by Mr. Sehl; it is the handsomest in the house. The heavy oaken stair case leading to the rooms above looks as though it was built to last forever. In the bed rooms which are large and cheerfully lighted, are hot and cold water fittings, while to avoid carrying dust through the house, the ashes are let down to the basement through an ash flue. A perfect burglar alarm system is in operation throughout the house.

The basement has the recommendation of being beautifully light and airy, while all available space is brought into requisition.

The house is furnished throughout with both gas and electric lights, and the water and sanitary arrangements, which were carried out by Braden & Stamford, are perfect in every respect.

Outside, the stables are apart from the residential grounds, and are connected with the house by an electric call. Mr. Irving has made his horses as comfortable as possible, believing that it is as necessary to make animals as well as men happy. With his own garden and his own cows he can have his own milk, vegetables and fruit. It is here that Mr. Irving, after life's battle, is resting, and he has built himself a home on which, though there was a great deal of money expended, none has been wasted. He has shown both taste and skill, and deserves the truly handsome home with which he has wished to decorate Victoria.

The plans were designed by a San Francisco architect and their execution was carried out by Mr. John Teague, of this city.

An Indian Chief's Funeral.

A lady writing from Inverness, B.C., says: "I was visiting at Essington for a week, where I witnessed a very grand funeral. The deceased was a great chief, so a good feast was laid out opposite the Methodist Church, and three bands, viz., those of Essington, Port Simpson and Port Chester were hired. After the church service, the coffin, covered with flowers, was placed in the middle of the road and the three bands played a tune, each over the remains, which were then buried. Then all sat down to the feast, where piles of canned meats, fruit and cigars were consumed and given away. The ceremony was concluded by a dozen of oranges and some cigars being left at the house of each white man and a potlatch of blankets, etc., to the Indians, and the bands kept on playing until 12 o'clock at night. It was such a grand affair altogether that half a dozen other old fellows went off the hooks the next week, as they said they wanted to die while there was plenty of money and muck-a-muck, so as to have a good funeral. I forgot to mention that the streets were decorated with flags and arches for the occasion."

The Usual Way.

The usual way is to neglect bad blood until boils, blotches and sores make its presence forcibly known. Every wise person ought to be careful to purify the blood by using the best blood purifier and tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters. Its purifying power is unrivalled.

Mayor Tibbals Re-elected.

The election in Port Townsend yesterday resulted in the re-election of Mayor H. Tibbals and the whole Republican ticket. Mayor Tibbals again defeated his old political opponent, Frank A. Bartlett. Chief of the police Delaney was re-elected by acclamation. Mr. Tibbals, who now serves a second term, spent many of his younger days in Victoria, having resided here with his family. He is a young man, but as popular as can be.

Purify The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted for generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint

Your Blood which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. In its preparation, its medicinal merit, and the wonderful cures it accomplishes Hood's Sarsaparilla is Peculiar to Itself. Thousands testify to its success, and the best advertising Hood's Sarsaparilla receives is the hearty endorsement of its army of friends. Every testimonial we publish, and every statement we make on behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla may be relied upon as strictly true in every respect.

If you need a good blood purifier or building up medicine, be sure to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Further information and statements of cures sent free to all who address us as below.

IMPORTANT LAND SALE.

Victoria Arm, Prospect Lake, AND COMOX DISTRICT.

MONDAY, 27TH JULY, AT 11 A.M.

I have been instructed to sell at my salesrooms, Fort and Langley streets, Victoria:

VICTORIA ARM.

Ten one-acre blocks of land, situated between Victoria Arm and Colquitz River, all fronting on a 60-foot road that extends from the Arm Road to the river. Also a four-acre block on the east side of the Colquitz, one corner of which touches on the Burnside Road. This land lies between the properties of Messrs. Austin and Adams. All this property is on a gentle slope and nearly all clear. The soil is first rate. These blocks are most desirable residential properties, and the neighborhood is considered one of the prettiest spots in the suburbs of Victoria City, and is destined in a short period to be very valuable. It is well sheltered from the cold winds.

PROSPECT LAKE.

Sections 132 and 133, containing about 70 acres each. The latter section has considerable frontage on the lake and about 20 acres of good land is cleared and fenced. There is a good road to this property. About 30 acres more can be easily cleared. The first section has considerable good land that can be easily cleared. The property is about six miles from Victoria. There are no Black Tail Deer or Ptarmigan on it, but lots of other game and lake trout. Either piece would make a most pleasant and desirable home.

COMOX DISTRICT.

Section 2—Containing 103 acres, fronting on the Comox River, close to the Courtney town site, and three miles from the Comox wharf. This property was formerly owned by A. M. Stephens, ex-M.P.P.

Section 6—Newcastle District, containing 104 acres, fronting on Deep Bay. About 20 acres of this land has been cleared and cultivated. There is also a four-room house, barn and improvements. It lies about 10 miles south from the Union Mine wharf, and the Nanaimo road runs through it; also a good running stream.

Section 12—Containing 138 acres. Adjoining Section 6, and fronting on Deep Bay. Both these sections were formerly occupied by W. H. Grove.

Section 79—Comox District, containing 160 acres. About 20 acres have been cleared, and cabin and barn erected. It has a good stream of running water; is on a good road; about five miles from Comox wharf. This is good, level land and soil; a large portion is alder bottom. Was formerly owned by Joe Rodello.

Section 119—Comox District. One hundred acres fronting on Comox River. This section adjoins 79. All flat river bottom land. A good deal of this land is alder bottom. This is one of the finest fishing frontages on the river.

TERMS OF SALE—25 per cent. cash; the balance in equal payments in one and two years, with interest at 6 per cent. per annum.

COAL

The New Vancouver Coal Mining & Land Co., Ltd.

(FORMERLY THE VANCOUVER COAL CO.),

ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE NANAIMO COAL (Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes.) | THE SOUTH FIELD COAL (Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL

(House and Steam Coal) are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, a high Illuminating Power, unequalled by any other bituminous Gas Coal in the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used by all the Leading Steamship Lines o the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL, which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite fuel for domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay, where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean steamers.

ABOUT DRAMATISTS.

Some of the Best Writers Have Cribbed From Their Predecessors.

From the Examiner.

Daniel Frohman recently, speaking of the appropriation of parts of Bayly's old farce, "Perfection," by De Mille and Belasco, authors of "The Charity Ball," said that Bayly had made use of Hood's poem, "Miss Kilmansegg and Her Golden Leg," and De Mille had gone to the same source for material for the comedy element in "The Charity Ball."

"I do not find any fault with the critic for pointing out the fact," said Mr. Frohman, "nor have I any criticism to make concerning the authors from whom I bought the play. The critic has done a perfectly proper thing, and I am pleased to see he is so familiar with plays. It is a matter between the authors and the critics, and I have sent the Examiner's criticism to Mr. De Mille. My business is with the public, and if the play pleases the public I am satisfied.

"I do not regard the imitated or worked over lines as of any great importance. They are merely a bit of light ornamentation at most. The play is built upon a good, human, wholesome theme, and the story of it is not dependent upon the little touch of comedy that was taken from Hood's poem and Bayly's farce."

"But, Mr. Frohman, it does not appear to be a case of simple utilization of the same idea. If you will look at this copy of 'Perfection,' you will see that the situation and the lines have been appropriated bodily and almost verbatim. Do you consider that legitimate play writing?"

Mr. Frohman declined to look at the play-book, saying: "I am not in the least interested in that. Every dramatic author must use ideas, situations and effects that have been used by others. Absolute originality is not to be expected. Shakespeare worked over the ideas of others, who in their turn had used the material supplied by their predecessors. If I find an effect that is successful, I have a right to adapt it to another play. One of my most successful plays is a combination of ideas and effects that had proved successful in a number of other plays. I pointed them out to an author and asked him to adapt them to another story, and the result was a new combination—a new play with old effects. And so you will find the same idea running through a great many plays, the difference being in the treatment. An infringement of the rights of others is a different matter, and I should certainly have something to say to an author if I discovered that he had sold to me a play in which he had trespassed upon the rights of another author. But in the case of 'The Charity Ball' there is no such infringement, and therefore, I am not interested. It is right for the critic to call attention to anything that seems to him to indicate lack of originality on the part of an author, and it is the author's privilege to take notice of the criticism if he sees fit. I am not responsible for the literary abilities of the authors, and I do not think I have been imposed upon by them in this case."

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT CHAMBERS.

(Before Mr. Justice Crease.)

In the case of Reid vs. Williams, the date for filing defendant's statement of defense was extended seven days.

COURT OF APPEAL.

Polson vs. Wolffson. This was an appeal against a judgment of His Lordship the Chief Justice, directing judgment in favor of the plaintiffs for £191 14s. 11d. The defendant contended that the plaintiffs by their conduct had accepted his brother Sigismund as the debtor, and discharged him from all liability. The court of appeal were of opinion that there was no evidence to warrant any such conclusion, and without calling upon the counsel for the plaintiffs, dismissed the appeal with costs. Hon. C. E. Pooley, Q.C., for the appellant; Hon. Theo. Davy, Q.C., and Mr. H. D. Helmcken for respondent.

The case of Brown vs. Beanlands occupied the afternoon session of the court.

COUNTER CRUMBS

That's a good name for them; or, we might call them

"CLEARANCE CRUMBS."

They are the crumbs of our season's stock.

You Know How It Is

Every season sees some broken line left on our counters; odd pieces, and patterns. These we call "crumbs." They go at crumb prices. Remember these are

Not Stale Crumbs,

But every crumb is fresh and of the best. Every article is worth to you as much as when we bought it. But you can buy now at less than the worth—yes, less than cost. We have placed these crumbs on our
